

Bedford Hills Centennial Event - May 15th

The Bedford Hills Free Library enjoyed participating in the Centennial Event as a stop on the scavenger hunt.

Young patrons created candy steam engines with Miss Kathy & toy steam whistles were given to all future engineers!

Several answers were needed before stamping your passport.

Question:

What the library had been used for before it became a library?

The answer:

It had been someone's home and then a rental. Tenants were still in the building when the library officially opened its doors to the public.

Question:

What kind of engine was in the library?

The "clue" was in the children's room.

The answer:

a steam engine!

Kathy Storfer, library programmer and Heide Shilstone, Trustee President, stand beside a working live steam model of a scaled down Shay locomotive. Built by Carl Kriegeskotte.